"It's not that one chooses to play the blues, rather, the blues chooses who will play it. The blues has chosen Phil Minissale as it's next torch carrier, and in that regard, has made a wise decision. Phil has what it takes, and will be someone to watch for in the near future. My hat's off to him."

"Rolling down Baghdad highway, fast as I can go. It's a long lonesome highway, and I can't deny there's harm"... this is a song about war and home, but it reflects on our dangerous times and the hectic pace of our everyday lives as well.

The songs on this CD in many ways concern themselves with the ephemeral substance of our lives, and attempts to speak to the things that really define us and give meaning to our stay here, love, change, and mortality.

This project would have not come to life without the help and support of many friends.

Thanks to Stephen Pilcher for letting us use his home for the initial recording tracks. Also thanks to Jack Donovan of WDEV radio, Dom Flemons for his fantastic liner notes, Ron Olesko, for his fun radio DJ dedication, Thanks for wisdom and advice from Tim Brookes, Sarah King, Jason Baker, Donna & Rick Nestler, Jeff Miller, Bill Coyle and Erik Balkey.

Special thanks to my producer Phil Henry, the creative genius who helped turn my vision into reality, to Alec Julien who made this album into an artistic jewel, and to my wife Marianna Holzer who was involved with every aspect of this project and is the light of my life.

On the album Hands of Time, the road weaves and bends to the tune of Rik's powerful songs of heartbreak, hoboing and moving on, giving brief snippets into the places where folk tradition overlaps with traditional country music. This is a place where westbound railroad boxcars and circus tents give way to interstates and highway truck stops. Given his years of preserving folk tradition, this album proves to be a unique departure for Rik who has chosen all but one song to be an original composition which will place him into the pantheon of the folk troubadours of old. Hands of Time is a transformative journey through the pen of Rik Palieri transporting the listener into his world of trials, travel and tribulation. The one traditional song, "Going Down The Road Feeling Bad," captured on an Edison cylinder recorder from the late 19th century will also literally take you back to a time when music was first being recorded and people for the first time were able to hear themselves played back out of a speaker. Rik has done this and so much more on this album. He has "The Hands of Time" in his fingertips and he is now sharing those lessons with you. As you hear his voice, imagine the fire of the match as it glistens. Let it draw you in. Before you know it, the light will blow out and the story will be gone again leaving you wondering which way the open road will lead.

Rik says...

Most of my life, I have been playing folk music. I leaned from the old masters like Pete Seeger and Utah Phillips. But way before I heard Folk, I was exposed to sounds of old style country music. Through my father's mother, I first heard of Hank Williams, Johnny Cash and the Carter family.

For years I wanted to record in this style. It was while I was involved with fundraising project to re-locate Utah Phillips flanger car from Vermont to Weed California that I saw an opportunity to make this happen. The flanger car known as Utah's caboose sat in field at the barn where the old Philo studio once stood. While I was interviewing Bill Schubart, he asked, “Do you hear it? Listen to the sound of the old studio, it’s still here!"

That lit the spark. I talked to the present owner Stephen Pilcher and asked if it was possible to record in the old studio and he happily said yes. I contacted my friend, singer-songwriter Phil Henry, and asked if he would be interested in becoming a part of this project and he too was on board.

On a sunny January day, Stephen and his wife moved around the furniture while Phil’s set up his portable studio and that is how this project begins.

The Trilogy
And now the completion of The Trilogy
The first part being your birth into reality, the second your life in that reality
The third part, your death and the completion of The Trilogy
Chorus: Can I find a pacifier, to ease my pain instead of amplify it,
I demand a recall and a revisit, to my land of dreams or I'm gonna blow it.
You stand alone on the brink of eternity pondering just what was lifes great mystery and you never know what will great you on the other side
Chorus
Take it easy son, your minds got you on the run
take it easy boy, its just a matter of time till you blow your mind
There is a light and it beckons you, it holds you, you can't run from it , it contains you
It is the beginning of another Trilogy, THE TRILOGY
Chorus

Laughing And Singing - Mike Shapiro - Beatrecords.com 0xff

If you like good original songs ranging from Rock and Roll to Funk to Country to Brit-Pop to the just plain weird take a listen!

Mike Shapiro has been a fixture in the Bay Area music scene for more than 40 years. He comes from the Palo Alto music scene that spawned such talent in the '60s as the Grateful Dead, Santana, members from The Jefferson Airplane and many others. From jamming with Jerry Garcia on the couch down a Dana Morgans Music on a hot summers afternoon to playing lead guitar in the legendary William Penn and his Pals you might say Mike had an interesting musical childhood. Mike wrote the music for Wm. Penns cult classic "Swami" made famous to Garage Rockers by the Pebbles collection. (He, however, takes no credit for the lyrics.)

This CD contains 11 great new songs penned by Mike Shapiro and performed with the incredible drumming of Marlon Green who's recording credits include people as John Lee Hooker and many others. It continues to be a "long strange trip".

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN PERNAMBUCO

NEW SOUNDS OF THE BRAZILIAN NORTHEAST

What's Happening in Pernambuca
of the Brazillian
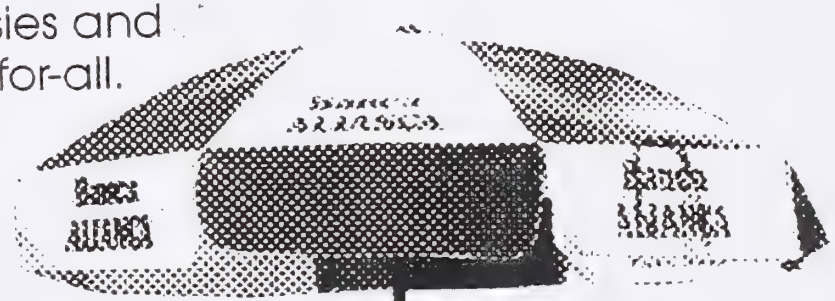
Northeast
Available
Feb. 2007

Music from the mud: calelites in the swamp!

PERNAMBUCO is grounded in tradition and modernity, electronic roots music for a true global metropolis. "These people are recovering things that the tractor of time runs over. Traditional forró; things from the hill; from the river banks; the crab culture; people's peculiar way of speaking; the local beat; the maracatu - all this is the land...the land." The pumping vein of Pernambuco pushes youth to celebrate, decked out in chain belts and fishermen's hats, pink daisies and miniskirts, all dancing in a modern-day free-for-all. Hey! What's happening in Pernambuco?



TRACKS:

1. EDDIE "PODE ME CHAMAR"
2. SIBA "VALE DO JUCA"
3. OTTO "BOB"
4. TINÉ "COBRINHA"
5. MOMBOJÓ "CABIDELA"
6. CABRUÊRA "ERECTUOS CACTOS"
7. CIDADÃO INSTIGADO "O POBRE DOS DENTES DE OURO"
8. MUNDO LIVRE "MAROCA"
9. NACAO ZUMBI "CARIMBÆO"
10. VATES E VIOLAS "INSTANTE FELIZ "
11. JUNIO BARRETO "AMIGOS BONS"
12. WADO E REALISMO FANTÁSTICO "SE VACILAR O JACARÉ ABRAÇA"

℗ 2002 Ropeadope Music Entertainment, LLC. Exclusively distributed by Atlantic Recording Corporation, Warner Music Group, An AOL Time Warner Company. Unauthorized duplication is a violation of applicable laws. Made in U.S.A. by WEA Manufacturing, Inc.

When Big Chris Chew (of the North Mississippi Allstars) first turned me on to sacred steel music, I felt like a scientist that had just discovered a new species. This incredible sound flipped my whole musical world upside down and it was the only thing I could listen to for a good part of 1999. My path of discovery led me directly to the land of Arhoolie Records, a tiny label that, while chronicling the diversity and ethnic overtones of American roots music for over 41 years, had been the first to document the sounds of the House of God, the birthplace of sacred steel. This record, compiled and sequenced by John Medeski, is our tribute to Arhoolie and the masters of sacred steel. We hope to spread the WORD and share our joy over this deeply rooted and thrilling music for the ages.

1. Hell Hounds 2. Always True 3. Great Grandpa 4. Spend My Life With You 5. You Knew It All Along 6. Every Road Led Home ~ Taken from demo sessions in the fall of 2010 and spring of 2011 we came to like this batch of songs best just the way that they showed up – raw, muddy and panting fire. We're handing them over to you as-is, in all their foot stompin', hand clappin' fury. We hope that you enjoy them for both their bark and their bite. ~ Christmas Davis, summer, 2011 / Connie Lynn Petruk: lead vocals, tambourine, alligator-suitcase-bass-drum, keyboards on song 4. Christmas Davis: vocals, guitar. Jeremy Chatzky: bass on song 4, Jesse Krakow: bass on songs 1, 2, 5 & 6. Katia Floreska: backing vocals songs 1, 2, 5 & 6. Joe McGinty: keyboards, & co-production on songs 1, 2, 5 & 6. Joel Hamilton: drums on song 4 & co-production on songs 3 & 4. Produced by Christmas Davis & Connie Lynn Petruk. DENNIS ANGEL

TIMELESS GROOVES

A SPECIAL MESSAGE:

Thanks to: Gottfried Stoger who arranged most of my original compositions and whose exceptional musical talent was an inspiration to me. Jason Miles, an amazingly gifted producer who brought out the best in each song. Jason Gorov, our radio promoter who early on believed in my music and has been a tireless supporter ever since. My wife Linda, without whose love and encouragement I never could have realized this dream. My daughters- Rebecca, who is featured on two of the songs on this album, I'm so proud of her, Stephanie and Michele, who have given me so much support through this project.

DEDICATION:

This album is dedicated to the loving memory of my father Morris who sacrificed so much of his time teaching me the trumpet and then finding the best teachers; I also dedicate this album to my mother-in-law Anita Lobel, whose love and support was unending. She bought me the flugelhorn featured on this cover just before her untimely death.

Soema Montenegro has been described as a poet, a shaman, and an excellent cook. She may be all of these, but above all, she's a world-class singer. Intense and dramatic, her songs echo the vibrant landscape and culture of her native Argentina.

Soema honed her voice and songwriting skills for years before releasing her debut Uno Una Uno (2008), which grabbed the attention of La Blogotheque's Vincent Moon. He was so taken by Soema's charm and skill that he chose to film this relatively unknown artist for the website's special 100th Take Away Show. Watching Soema perform we witness her magically shift from a deep smoldering moan to a wild, but perfectly controlled caterwaul. You don't have to understand Spanish to be enchanted by Soema's theatrical and impressionistic story telling.

Her music is so sensual and overwhelming, that it sometimes seems perilously close to madness. Its mystery burns with a heat barely contained by the angular and precise fingerwork of the accompanying musicians. Like Yma Sumac and Meredith Monk before her, Soema is using her voice to innovate and push the boundaries of pure human expression.

PRESS CONTACT | Banter Media
Tyler Stover
tyler@bantermm.com
www.bantermm.com

Austin's Dana Falconberry, praised by the Austin Chronicle as one of the city's "most arresting female vocalists" and "most promising singer-songwrters" is back with her newest record Halletts, released January 14th of this year. The album revisits some of her previous works as well as including a few new ones, this time with the help of a full band. Influenced by and compared to the likes of Gillian Welch and Lucinda Williams, the foursome plans to hit the road this spring in support of the new record with stops in the South, Midwest, and East Coast.

A few words from Dana on the recording of Halletts: "I woke first after dreaming of parachuting from the clouds and wandered out the screen door. Tall tall grass, a small red barn. I gathered dried leaves and returned to the house, the others had woken. We set up our instruments and stood in a circle in the living room, surrounded by old couches and microphones. On the east wall a painting of a horse. Golden hair, soft green grass. We sang to her and to the cicadas, and to each other."

9. Panic (6:15)

Austin's Lomita is the soulful AM radio soundtrack to what it feels like to careen a speeding Cadillac off of a cliff with whiskey stench on your breath thinking about your no good cheating she-devil girl that ripped your heart out 100 miles ago.

The band displays their true love and addiction to all quality music as they weave in and out of genres incorporating the dust storm desert country sounds of Big Star's Third/Sister Lovers record, the beautiful chaos rock of Sonic Youth, the layered shoegaze ambiance of Mogwai, the dance rock flamboyance of Billy Idol, the straight up vintage motorcycle rock of Davie Allen and The Arrows, and topped off with shimmers of Krautrock legends Neu! Through their commitment to all quality music, their limitless creative energy, and their intelligent songwriting, Lomita have birthed a new genre: country-shoegaze-dance-freakout-motorcycle-soul-rock to drink, fuck, or shoot yourself to.

"We throw a wide range of influences into the mix and that makes us hard to define" primary vocalist Ricky Sowan said. "All of our styles can coexist to form a cohesive sound and people either connect with it or get confused by it."

Lomita's instrumentation is as diverse as their influences; the band employs lap and pedal steels, a musician's wet-dream of guitars, a complex city of effects pedals, several electric pianos, bass, and drums. With all these options in the capable hands of some of the finest young musicians, the sounds created are beautifully thick, haunting, intense, soulful, and ecstatic all at the same time.

All of their talents and creative energies collide at their most arrestingly powerful points during the live shows. There are few bands that know equally well how to incite a feverish dance riot, drown the crowd in whisky tears, as well as unleash an orgy of instrumental feedback breakdowns.

The band has released their debut full length, Stress Echo, in April of 2005 which has been re-released on Indierect Records (August 2006) following the sell-out of the initial pressing. They are currently hard at work on tracking and mixing material for an another full-length for early 2007.

SELECTED PRESS

"One of the most interesting mash-up sounds incorporating lonesome country, dirty-diesel rock, psychedelic shoegaze, and whatever else these boys decide to (almost literally) bust over your head... If you ever wanted to know what it feels like to drive a ragged Triumph motorcycle off a cliff, this is probably as close as you can get."

– Santiago Capra, Austin Music Magazine

"Few bands arrive on the scene fully-formed, self-assured and ready for loads of inevitable praise....Lomita is one of these rare bands. A band with more ideas than time to execute them, Lomita is a seemingly endless pool of talent and creativity that knows no boundaries."

– Charles Martin, The Austin Independent

"Lomita's hunger for multiple genre num-nums caused them to branch out and create music that combines ambient tones with pseudo-psychedelia and pedal- and lap steel-aided riffs, which give the band a twanged-out indie rock flavor. Think of the band as a darker version of Pavement."

– Simon McCormack, Albuquerque Alibi

"Lomita's nine-song debut plays out like a deep-fried dark night of the soul. The Austin quintet's gritty concoction of tripped-out twang, whiskey-bent trash rock, and Idiot-era Iggy Pop emerges almost fully fanged."

– Greg Beets, Austin Chronicle

"Stress Echo is without a doubt one of the most solid releases to come out of Austin... Incredible musical talent, solid songwriting, and honest lyrics make this record worth every note."

– Anatol Ziege, Study Breaks magazine

"You can tell this band is trying to do something new – they are the kind of band that can change direction on a dime and is a bottomless well of talent."

– Chicago Music Reader

"Blowing up as we speak"

– Chris Gray, Austin Chronicle

"The band constructs songs in a way that ignores, and sometimes breaks, traditional genre. Hints of indie rock like Slowdive and Sonic Youth, the 1970s-style pop rock of Big Star, and the country-rock of yesteryear flood listeners' eardrums all at once, making Lomita a most intriguing listen."

– Franklin Morris, Study Breaks magazine

MASTODON'S BRENT HINDS READIES NEW WEST END MOTEL RELEASE

SOPHOMORE ALBUM SKELETONS DUE OUT OCTOBER 30 ON WARNER BROS RECORDS

Mastodon guitarist Brent Hinds is gearing up for the release of his sophomore album with side project West End Motel. Due October 30 on Warner Bros Records, Skeletons is the highly-anticipated follow-up to Hinds' acclaimed 2011 debut Don't Shiver, You're A Winner which SPIN proclaimed "a welcome departure from Mastodon's thrashy, progged-out fare...sounds like Tom Waits and Tim Burton co-hosting the creepiest vaudeville show ever," and Pitchfork praised for its "playfulness and off-the-cuff amiability."

West End Motel began in 1993 under a bridge in Atlanta, where Hinds first met longtime friend Tom Cheshire. Describing themselves as a "conglomerate of losers, poets and hobo-sexuals," the pair write acoustic-guitar driven songs enriched with horns and keys, with the end result sounding like Nick Cave fronting Gogol Bordello. The project pre-dates Mastodon and offers an important glimpse into Hinds' musical influences.

"I grew up listening to Chet Atkins play guitar, and I grew up listening to Brian Setzer play guitar," explains Hinds. "Jimmy Bryant, Speedy West, all these country-chicken-pickin'-flying-'round-the-guitar-neck guitar players. I got really inspired by it. I'm from way down in the country. It was pretty common to have the interests I had when I was that age. MTV had some hair metal on there, but I was more interested in this rockabilly vibe. Stray Cats were really big at the time, in the '80s. It was epic."

Skeletons Track Listing:

1. Burn It Down
2. El Myr
3. Witch Is Dead
4. If I Only Had Tomorrow (Second Chances)
5. Forgiveness
6. Only Time Can Tell
7. Valentine
8. Bite

"Rolling down Baghdad highway, fast as I can go. It's a long lonesome highway, and I can't deny there's harm"... this is a song about war and home, but it reflects on our dangerous times and the hectic pace of our everyday lives as well.

The songs on this CD in many ways concern themselves with the ephemeral substance of our lives, and attempts to speak to the things that really define us and give meaning to our stay here, love, change, and mortality.

This project would have not come to life without the help and support of many friends.

Thanks to Stephen Pilcher for letting us use his home for the initial recording tracks. Also thanks to Jack Donovan of WDEV radio, Dom Flemons for his fantastic liner notes, Ron Olesko, for his fun radio DJ dedication, Thanks for wisdom and advice from Tim Brookes, Sarah King, Jason Baker, Donna & Rick Nestler, Jeff Miller, Bill Coyle and Erik Balkey.

Special thanks to my producer Phil Henry, the creative genius who helped turn my vision into reality, to Alec Julien who made this album into an artistic jewel, and to my wife Marianna Holzer who was involved with every aspect of this project and is the light of my life.

On the album Hands of Time, the road weaves and bends to the tune of Rik's powerful songs of heartbreak, hoboing and moving on, giving brief snippets into the places where folk tradition overlaps with traditional country music. This is a place where westbound railroad boxcars and circus tents give way to interstates and highway truck stops. Given his years of preserving folk tradition, this album proves to be a unique departure for Rik who has chosen all but one song to be an original composition which will place him into the pantheon of the folk troubadours of old. Hands of Time is a transformative journey through the pen of Rik Palieri transporting the listener into his world of trials, travel and tribulation. The one traditional song, "Going Down The Road Feeling Bad," captured on an Edison cylinder recorder from the late 19th century will also literally take you back to a time when music was first being recorded and people for the first time were able to hear themselves played back out of a speaker. Rik has done this and so much more on this album. He has "The Hands of Time" in his fingertips and he is now sharing those lessons with you. As you hear his voice, imagine the fire of the match as it glistens. Let it draw you in. Before you know it, the light will blow out and the story will be gone again leaving you wondering which way the open road will lead.

Rik says...

Most of my life, I have been playing folk music. I leaned from the old masters like Pete Seeger and Utah Phillips. But way before I heard Folk, I was exposed to sounds of old style country music. Through my father's mother, I first heard of Hank Williams, Johnny Cash and the Carter family.

For years I wanted to record in this style. It was while I was involved with fundraising project to re-locate Utah Phillips flanger car from Vermont to Weed California that I saw an opportunity to make this happen. The flanger car known as Utah's caboose sat in field at the barn where the old Philo studio once stood. While I was interviewing Bill Schubart, he asked, “Do you hear it? Listen to the sound of the old studio, it’s still here!"

That lit the spark. I talked to the present owner Stephen Pilcher and asked if it was possible to record in the old studio and he happily said yes. I contacted my friend, singer-songwriter Phil Henry, and asked if he would be interested in becoming a part of this project and he too was on board.

On a sunny January day, Stephen and his wife moved around the furniture while Phil’s set up his portable studio and that is how this project begins.

lyrics on Hot Emotion and Diamond Ring by John Quick.

The Trilogy
And now the completion of The Trilogy
The first part being your birth into reality, the second your life in that reality
The third part, your death and the completion of The Trilogy
Chorus: Can I find a pacifier, to ease my pain instead of amplify it,
I demand a recall and a revisit, to my land of dreams or I'm gonna blow it.
You stand alone on the brink of eternity pondering just what was lifes great mystery
and you never know what will great you on the other side
Chorus
Take it easy son, your minds got you on the run
take it easy boy, its just a matter of time till you blow your mind
There is a light and it beckons you, it holds you, you can't run from it , it contains you
It is the beginning of another Trilogy, THE TRILOGY
Chorus

Marlon Green: Has recorded with John Lee Hooker, Zykia Hooker, The Green Brothers, Johnny Talbot, Marvin Holmes and plays regularly with the famed Jules Broussard. He has played in Thailand, Japan, Canada, Bahamas and all over U.S.

Lyrics on Hot Emotion and Diamond Ring John Quick

If you like good original songs ranging from Rock and Roll to Funk to Country to Brit-Pop to the just plain weird take a listen!

Mike Shapiro has been a fixture in the Bay Area music scene for more than 40 years. He comes from the Palo Alto music scene that spawned such talent in the '60s as the Grateful Dead, Santana, members from The Jefferson Airplane and many others. From jamming with Jerry Garcia on the couch down a Dana Morgans Music on a hot summers afternoon to playing lead guitar in the legendary William Penn and his Pals you might say Mike had an interesting musical childhood. Mike wrote the music for Wm. Penns cult classic "Swami" made famous to Garage Rockers by the Pebbles collection. (He, however, takes no credit for the lyrics.)

This CD contains 11 great new songs penned by Mike Shapiro and performed with the incredible drumming of Marlon Green who's recording credits include people as John Lee Hooker and many others. It continues to be a "long strange trip".

WHAT'S HAPPENIN'
IN PERNAMBUCO
NEW SOUNDS OF THE
BRAZILIAN NORTHEAST

What's Happening in Pernambuca
of the Brazillian
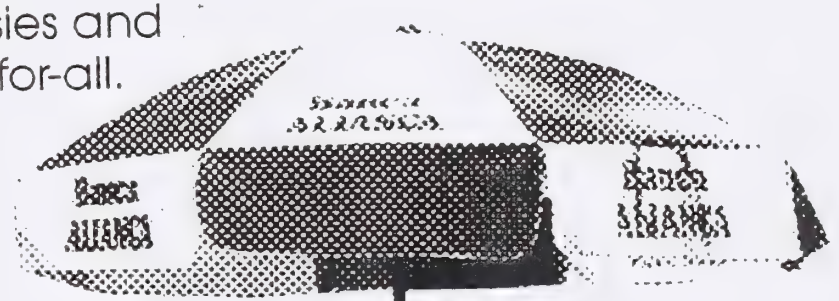
Northeast
Available
Feb. 2007

Music from the mud: caranguejos in the swamp!

PERNAMBUCO is grounded in tradition and modernity, electronic roots music for a true global metropolis. "These people are recovering things that the tractor of time runs over. Traditional forró; things from the hill; from the river banks; the crab culture; people's peculiar way of speaking; the local beat; the maracatu - all this is the land...the land." The pumping vein of Pernambuco pushes youth to celebrate, decked out in chain belts and fishermen's hats, pink daisies and miniskirts, all dancing in a modern-day free-for-all. Hey! What's happening in Pernambuco?



TRACKS:

1. EDDIE "PODE ME CHAMAR"
2. SIBA "VALE DO JUCA"
3. OTTO "BOB"
4. TINÉ "COBRINHA"
5. MOMBOJÓ "CABIDELA"
6. CABRUÊRA "ERECTUOS CACTOS"
7. CIDADÃO INSTIGADO "O POBRE DOS DENTES DE OURO"
8. MUNDO LIVRE "MAROCA"
9. NACAO ZUMBI "CARIMBÆO"
10. VATES E VIOLAS "INSTANTE FELIZ "
11. JUNIO BARRETO "AMIGOS BONS"
12. WADO E REALISMO FANTÁSTICO "SE VACILAR O JACARÉ ABRAÇA"
13. ALEX SANT' ANNA "POESIA DE BARRO"

When Big Chris Chew (of the North Mississippi Allstars) first turned me on to sacred steel music, I felt like a scientist that had just discovered a new species. This incredible sound flipped my whole musical world upside down and it was the only thing I could listen to for a good part of 1999. My path of discovery led me directly to the land of Arhoolie Records, a tiny label that, while chronicling the diversity and ethnic overtones of American roots music for over 41 years, had been the first to document the sounds of the House of God, the birthplace of sacred steel. This record, compiled and sequenced by John Medeski, is our tribute to Arhoolie and the masters of sacred steel. We hope to spread the WORD and share our joy over this deeply rooted and thrilling music for the ages.

THE TALL PINES
Hell Hounds

1. Hell Hounds 2. Always True 3. Great Grandpa 4. Spend My Life With You 5. You Knew It All Along 6. Every Road Led Home ~ Taken from demo sessions in the fall of 2010 and spring of 2011 we came to like this batch of songs best just the way that they showed up – raw, muddy and panting fire. We're handing them over to you as-is, in all their foot stompin', hand clappin' fury. We hope that you enjoy them for both their bark and their bite. ~ Christmas Davis, summer, 2011 / Connie Lynn Petruk: lead vocals, tambourine, alligator-suitcase-bass-drum, keyboards on song 4. Christmas Davis: vocals, guitar. Jeremy Chatzky: bass on song 4, Jesse Krakow: bass on songs 1, 2, 5 & 6. Katia Floreska: backing vocals songs 1, 2, 5 & 6. Joe McGinty: keyboards, & co-production on songs 1, 2, 5 & 6. Joel Hamilton: drums on song 4 & co-production on songs 3 & 4. Produced by Christmas Davis & Connie Lynn Petruk. Mastering: Matt Agoglia at MasterDisk. Photo: Courtney Brooke. Design: Aaron Lazar. All songs copyright 2011 Happy Cabin Music (BMI).

DENNIS ANGEL

TIMELESS GROOVES

A SPECIAL MESSAGE:

Thanks to: Gottfried Stoger who arranged most of my original compositions and whose exceptional musical talent was an inspiration to me. Jason Miles, an amazingly gifted producer who brought out the best in each song. Jason Gorov, our radio promoter who early on believed in my music and has been a tireless supporter ever since. My wife Linda, without whose love and encouragement I never could have realized this dream. My daughters- Rebecca, who is featured on two of the songs on this album, I'm so proud of her, Stephanie and Michele, who have given me so much support through this project.

DEDICATION:

This album is dedicated to the loving memory of my father Morris who sacrificed so much of his time teaching me the trumpet and then finding the best teachers; I also dedicate this album to my mother-in-law Anita Lobel, whose love and support was unending. She bought me the flugelhorn featured on this cover just before her untimely death.

Soema Montenegro has been described as a poet, a shaman, and an excellent cook. She may be all of these, but above all, she's a world-class singer. Intense and dramatic, her songs echo the vibrant landscape and culture of her native Argentina.

Soema honed her voice and songwriting skills for years before releasing her debut Uno Una Uno (2008), which grabbed the attention of La Blogotheque's Vincent Moon. He was so taken by Soema's charm and skill that he chose to film this relatively unknown artist for the website's special 100th Take Away Show. Watching Soema perform we witness her magically shift from a deep smoldering moan to a wild, but perfectly controlled caterwaul. You don't have to understand Spanish to be enchanted by Soema's theatrical and impressionistic story telling.

Her music is so sensual and overwhelming, that it sometimes seems perilously close to madness. Its mystery burns with a heat barely contained by the angular and precise fingerwork of the accompanying musicians. Like Yma Sumac and Meredith Monk before her, Soema is using her voice to innovate and push the boundaries of pure human expression.

Austin's Dana Falconberry, praised by the Austin Chronicle as one of the city's "most arresting female vocalists" and "most promising singer-songwrters" is back with her newest record Halletts, released January 14th of this year. The album revisits some of her previous works as well as including a few new ones, this time with the help of a full band. Influenced by and compared to the likes of Gillian Welch and Lucinda Williams, the foursome plans to hit the road this spring in support of the new record with stops in the South, Midwest, and East Coast.

A few words from Dana on the recording of Halletts: "I woke first after dreaming of parachuting from the clouds and wandered out the screen door. Tall tall grass, a small red barn. I gathered dried leaves and returned to the house, the others had woken. We set up our instruments and stood in a circle in the living room, surrounded by old couches and microphones. On the east wall a painting of a horse. Golden hair, soft green grass. We sang to her and to the cicadas, and to each other."

STRESS ECHO CD (2006 indierect records)

9. Panic (6:15)

Austin's Lomita is the soulful AM radio soundtrack to what it feels like to careen a speeding Cadillac off of a cliff with whiskey stench on your breath thinking about your no good cheating she-devil girl that ripped your heart out 100 miles ago.

The band displays their true love and addiction to all quality music as they weave in and out of genres incorporating the dust storm desert country sounds of Big Star's Third/Sister Lovers record, the beautiful chaos rock of Sonic Youth, the layered shoegaze ambiance of Mogwai, the dance rock flamboyance of Billy Idol, the straight up vintage motorcycle rock of Davie Allen and The Arrows, and topped off with shimmers of Krautrock legends Neu! Through their commitment to all quality music, their limitless creative energy, and their intelligent songwriting, Lomita have birthed a new genre: country-shoegaze-dance-freakout-motorcycle-soul-rock to drink, fuck, or shoot yourself to.

"We throw a wide range of influences into the mix and that makes us hard to define" primary vocalist Ricky Sowan said. "All of our styles can coexist to form a cohesive sound and people either connect with it or get confused by it."

Lomita's instrumentation is as diverse as their influences; the band employs lap and pedal steels, a musician's wet-dream of guitars, a complex city of effects pedals, several electric pianos, bass, and drums. With all these options in the capable hands of some of the finest young musicians, the sounds created are beautifully thick, haunting, intense, soulful, and ecstatic all at the same time.

All of their talents and creative energies collide at their most arrestingly powerful points during the live shows. There are few bands that know equally well how to incite a feverish dance riot, drown the crowd in whisky tears, as well as unleash an orgy of instrumental feedback breakdowns.

The band has released their debut full length, Stress Echo, in April of 2005 which has been re-released on Indierect Records (August 2006) following the sell-out of the initial pressing. They are currently hard at work on tracking and mixing material for an another full-length for early 2007.

SELECTED PRESS

"One of the most interesting mash-up sounds incorporating lonesome country, dirty-diesel rock, psychedelic shoegaze, and whatever else these boys decide to (almost literally) bust over your head... If you ever wanted to know what it feels like to drive a ragged Triumph motorcycle off a cliff, this is probably as close as you can get."
– Santiago Capra, Austin Music Magazine

"Few bands arrive on the scene fully-formed, self-assured and ready for loads of inevitable praise....Lomita is one of these rare bands. A band with more ideas than time to execute them, Lomita is a seemingly endless pool of talent and creativity that knows no boundaries."
– Charles Martin, The Austin Independent

"Lomita's hunger for multiple genre num-nums caused them to branch out and create music that combines ambient tones with pseudo-psychedelia and pedal- and lap steel-aided riffs, which give the band a twanged-out indie rock flavor. Think of the band as a darker version of Pavement."
– Simon McCormack, Albuquerque Alibi

"Lomita's nine-song debut plays out like a deep-fried dark night of the soul. The Austin quintet's gritty concoction of tripped-out twang, whiskey-bent trash rock, and Idiot-era Iggy Pop emerges almost fully fanged."
– Greg Beets, Austin Chronicle

"Stress Echo is without a doubt one of the most solid releases to come out of Austin... Incredible musical talent, solid songwriting, and honest lyrics make this record worth every note."
– Anatol Ziege, Study Breaks magazine

"You can tell this band is trying to do something new – they are the kind of band that can change direction on a dime and is a bottomless well of talent."
– Chicago Music Reader

"Blowing up as we speak"
– Chris Gray, Austin Chronicle

"The band constructs songs in a way that ignores, and sometimes breaks, traditional genre. Hints of indie rock like Slowdive and Sonic Youth, the 1970s-style pop rock of Big Star, and the country-rock of yesteryear flood listeners' eardrums all at once, making Lomita a most intriguing listen."
– Franklin Morris, Study Breaks magazine

Mastodon guitarist Brent Hinds is gearing up for the release of his sophomore album with side project West End Motel. Due October 30 on Warner Bros Records, Skeletons is the highly-anticipated follow-up to Hinds' acclaimed 2011 debut Don't Shiver, You're A Winner which SPIN proclaimed "a welcome departure from Mastodon's thrashy, progged-out fare...sounds like Tom Waits and Tim Burton co-hosting the creepiest vaudeville show ever," and Pitchfork praised for its "playfulness and off-the-cuff amiability."

West End Motel began in 1993 under a bridge in Atlanta, where Hinds first met longtime friend Tom Cheshire. Describing themselves as a "conglomerate of losers, poets and hobo-sexuals," the pair write acoustic-guitar driven songs enriched with horns and keys, with the end result sounding like Nick Cave fronting Gogol Bordello. The project pre-dates Mastodon and offers an important glimpse into Hinds' musical influences.

"I grew up listening to Chet Atkins play guitar, and I grew up listening to Brian Setzer play guitar," explains Hinds. "Jimmy Bryant, Speedy West, all these country-chicken-pickin'-flying-'round-the-guitar-neck guitar players. I got really inspired by it. I'm from way down in the country. It was pretty common to have the interests I had when I was that age. MTV had some hair metal on there, but I was more interested in this rockabilly vibe. Stray Cats were really big at the time, in the '80s. It was epic."

Skeletons Track Listing:

1. Burn It Down
2. El Myr
3. Witch Is Dead
4. If I Only Had Tomorrow (Second Chances)
5. Forgiveness
6. Only Time Can Tell
7. Valentine
8. Bite
